Birth and Family

Graham Olu was born in 2001 to the Late David Lwangu Barasa, the Late Josephine Akello Ogola and the Late Lydia Wanja Mate. He grew up alongside his siblings Baron Barasa, Ann Imbuga, Esther Atieno, Victor Gitonga and Humphrey Mutugi with whom he shared a close bond and a common heritage. Both his parents went before him, but the foundation they laid for their children lived on in Graham and his siblings, and remains part of the legacy he leaves behind. Graham and his siblings easily integrated into the Mate family in Kanyuambora, Embu County where they are cherished members.

A Life of Growth and Learning

Graham grew up in Mtito Andei and Kanyuambora. He began school at Grace Academy in Mtito Andei, then moved to Kanyuambora Primary School, and later to Kanyuambora Boys High School for his secondary education. It was in these years that his curiosity, especially about how things work, began to take shape.

Graham loved to learn, and technology held his attention above all. While still in his teens he trained in ethical hacking at the Zalego Institute of Technology and Innovation (2019-2020), and went on to Cisco Networking Academy, where he trained for the Cisco Certified Network Associate (CCNA) certification (2020-2021). In January 2021 he enrolled at Zetech University to study Software Engineering, and pursued the degree until November 2024. Alongside it, he studied web development at Codesmith (2022-2023) and undertook a Fullstack Developer programme at Holberton School (2023-2024). His learning was not confined to technology. Between December 2023 and April 2024 he studied for a Certificate in Kenyan Sign Language at the Kenya Institute of Special Education, a reminder that his interest in communication reached well beyond code.

Career

Graham built his career in software engineering, artificial intelligence and emerging technologies, and in a short time he took on real responsibility. From October 2022 to December 2025 he served as a Legislative Intern at the County Assembly of Kiambu, contributing to research and policy work on emerging technologies and their social and economic effects. Between March and November 2025 he served as Chief Technology Officer of DalensAI and as Tech Lead at MeallensAI, shaping technical architecture and building AI-driven products. From September 2025 to March 2026 he was Treasurer of Based Creators East Africa, supporting financial planning, treasury management and digital asset security. Earlier, from November 2023 to November 2024, he served as a crew member at Droidcon Kenya, part of the technology community he valued.

His career was still unfolding, yet he had already webbed together associates and teams in technology, research, leadership and community service. It was the path of a young man still learning, still building, and still asking how his skills could serve others.

Faith

Graham was raised in the Christian faith and was baptized and confirmed in the Anglican Church. Graham would later changed his own path by nurturing a desire to enter catholic priesthood. Quietly, Graham had deeply integrated into the Catholic faith and was an active member of his Jumuia. As we gather to remember him, it is that same faith in God, and the prayers and hope it carries, that will sustain those he has left behind. We can only thank God for Graham.

Illness and Passing

Graham faced a brief illness with courage, surrounded by the care of his family and the prayers of many. On 11th October, he departed this life. Though his time was short, his impact was real, his memory is cherished, and his life continues to inspire.

Tributes from Family and Friends

From Auntie Mukami

My dear nephew, my son, words cannot express the pain of losing you. You were the nephew who could put me on your to-do list just to come to my office and hug me, gift me bags, or buy onions for me. These little acts of love meant more than you could ever imagine.

Today, these beautiful memories are all I have to hold on to and I will treasure them forever. How I wish I could have one more hug, one more visit and one more moment with you.

Rest well my son.Your memory will live in my heart always. 🕊️

From Friend Mwangala

Saying goodbye to you is one of the hardest things I've ever had to do. You were always the elder brother I never had.
I'll miss the random late night phone calls, the random walks, our arguments about anything and everything, your kindness, and all the beautiful memories we shared.

A part of me will always be in heaven with you.
I won't cry because it's over; I'll smile because you happened.
Rest easy, my brother. 🕊️

From Brother Baron.

Graham, you were the most kind-hearted person I have ever known. Loving, gentle, selfless — you had a heart that cared for everyone, even before yourself. You never knew how to hate, you only knew how to love.
You taught me what true kindness looks like. In your smile, in your words, in the small things you did for others without expecting anything in return. You were love in human form.

You were not just my brother, you were my pride, my friend, my blessing. Your laughter will forever echo in my heart. Your love will continue to guide me.

I will miss you every single day, Graham. But I will carry your kindness with me, and I will try to be as loving as you were.
You left us too soon, but heaven has gained the most beautiful soul.
Rest well, my brother. Rest in love. Rest in peace.
Forever loved, forever missed.🕊️

From Cousin Peter.

People have always known me as a good writer, but somehow, I can't find words worthy of you. I've lost more than a cousin; I've lost a brother, a best friend, and a piece of my childhood. We were so close that people often thought we were siblings, and honestly, that's exactly what we were in our own way. You were the older cousin brother, and I was the younger cousin sister who always looked up to you.

I still remember hearing stories about you before we met, imagining you as the fearless Rambo from the movies, only to meet a little boy who would eventually become one of the most important people in my life. I'll never forget the day you came with your dad carrying that green bucket full of honey, wearing shorts just like mine. I wanted us to match so badly that I cried when I couldn't find mine. Little did I know that the boy I was so excited to meet would become my childhood, my companion, my teacher, and the brother I would forever cherish.

You shaped the person I became in ways words could never fully explain. Now, I would give anything for one more ordinary day with you, one more laugh, one more conversation, and one more memory together. The hardest part of losing you is knowing that you've taken a piece of our childhood with you, a piece only we could understand. But I'll keep telling our story, Gram, because you deserve to be remembered.

You were never the Rambo I imagined; you were so much more. You were my cousin by blood, my brother by heart, and a part of me that death can never take away. I wish I could have one more moment to tell you how much you meant to me. Until we meet again, my big cousin brother, you will forever be my Rambo. Rest peacefully. 🕊️❤️

Hymns

Amazing Grace

Amazing grace, oh, how sweet the sound
That saved a wretch like me
I once was lost, but now am found
Was blind, but now I see

When we've been there ten thousand years
Bright shining as the sun
We've no less days to sing God's praise
Than when, when we first begun

Through many dangers, toils, and snares
I have already come
'Tis grace that brought me safe thus far
And grace will lead me home, home

Amazing grace, oh, how sweet the sound
That saved a wretch like me
Oh, I once was lost, but now I'm found
Was blind, but now I see
Was blind, but now I see

Life is not measured in years alone,
but by what fills them: the relationships,
the work, the aspirations and the memories.

Your life was full of learning,
of building, and shaping lives.

Your story now belongs to us who loved you.

Rest In Peace, Graham.

May perpetual light shine upon you.
Amen.
